

Business Architecture Guild BAGUILD-CBA-LVL1-100 Exam

Volume: 210 Questions

Question No : 1

What is a core competency for a business architecture practitioner?

- A. Collaboration
- B. Process modeling
- C. Strategy development
- D. Software tool installation

Answer: A

Question No : 2

What is an attribute of capabilities?

- A. They map to other views of the business
- B. They are capabilities if they are automated
- C. They are comprised of business processes
- D. They encapsulate people, processes and tools

Answer: A

Question No : 3

What constrains an organization map?

- A. The boundaries of the legal entity focal point
- B. The executives sponsoring the mapping effort
- C. The business unit running the mapping project
- D. The boundaries of the business that is being mapped

Answer: D

Business Architecture Guild BAGUILD-CBA-LVL1-100 Exam

Question No : 4

When designing an automation solution, what is an effective business architecture perspective for providing input to SOA services orchestration and reusability?

- A. Business unit to capability mapping
- B. Business process to capability mapping
- C. Value stream stage to capability mapping
- D. Information concept to capability mapping

Answer: C

Question No : 5

What is a benefit of organization mapping?

- A. It defines the foundation for the business vocabulary
- B. It establishes a basis for business / IT transformation
- C. It provides a foundation for defining customer and partner value delivery
- D. It creates a basis for collaborating on investment opportunities that cross business units

Answer: D

Question No : 6

In a business architecture context, changes to facilities and equipment:

- A. Result from an organization's strategic direction and operational issues
- B. Accommodate different work habits as jobs evolve and culture changes
- C. Are based on current operational need, not business architecture directives
- D. Must be considered when new IT or production technology becomes available

Answer: A

Business Architecture Guild BAGUILD-CBA-LVL1-100 Exam

Question No : 7

A product map should obtain product names from which source?

- A. Customers
- B. The business
- C. Industry literature
- D. IT planning teams

Answer: B

Question No : 8

How does business architecture benefit business performance management?

- A. It produces insights into system development lifecycle improvements
- B. It delivers effectiveness ratings associated with tangible business focal points
- C. It provides organization and stakeholder mappings as a basis for impact analysis
- D. It establishes business process models as a way of determining operational efficiency

Answer: B

Question No : 9

An executive team of portfolio managers is trying to determine if various initiatives intersect on common business focal points in order to avoid work on overlapping or redundant projects. Which business architecture perspectives should be incorporated into initiative mapping to perform this analysis?

- A. Value streams and business processes
- B. Products and services
- C. Business goals and objectives
- D. Value stream stages and capabilities

Answer: D

Business Architecture Guild BAGUILD-CBA-LVL1-100 Exam

Question No : 10

What is true about business architecture and business processes?

- A. Business processes are part of the core or foundational business architecture perspective
- B. Business process decomposition is an effective approach to defining business capabilities
- C. End-to-end business processes are represented in business architecture as value streams
- D. Business architecture provides a framework for assessing process improvement opportunities

Answer: D

Question No : 11

During the planning stage, a business architecture methodology enables which outcome?

- A. User story articulation
- B. Business process modeling
- C. Well-articulated scope definition
- D. Return on investment determination

Answer: C

Question No : 12

In investment analysis, business architecture:

- A. Leverages the capability map as a standalone blueprint
- B. Defines the elements of IT where cost savings can be achieved
- C. Enables strategic and organizational alignment of investment options
- D. Identifies financial performance metrics to inform investment analysis

Answer: C

Question No : 13

Business Architecture Guild BAGUILD-CBA-LVL1-100 Exam

Business architecture is defined by the scope of:

- A. The business
- B. The enterprise
- C. A manager's authority
- D. A project using the business architecture

Answer: A

Question No : 14

A common starting point for stakeholder mapping is:

- A. Board members, business executives and investors
- B. Business partners, distributors, agents and representatives
- C. External stakeholders who receive direct benefit from the business
- D. Employees who play distinct roles within business process modeling efforts

Answer: C

Question No : 15

What should the Business Architecture Maturity Model provide the organization?

- A. Guidance on how to establish sponsorship and governance
- B. Projected cost savings at various levels of organizational maturity
- C. A framework upon which a business architecture may be constructed
- D. Ability to evaluate a business architecture against a defined industry baseline

Answer: D

Question No : 16

Which business architecture domain is commonly mapped to value stream to enable business planning?